

MEN & WOMEN WORKING TOGETHER TO END DOMESTIC VIOLENCE

Respect Complaints Procedure – Respect Phonenumber and Men’s Advice Line

Respect is committed to providing services of high quality in a non-discriminatory way. It is our policy to take all complaints seriously and to ensure that they are promptly investigated at an appropriate level. We are also committed, whenever possible, to act to reduce the likelihood of recurrence of similar problems.

The procedure outlined below is intended to be used when an agency or individual wishes to complain about the quality of the service they have received on the Respect Phonenumber or Men’s Advice Line.

Procedure

1. We encourage service users wishing to complain, to submit their complaint as soon as possible after their contact with the helpline. Complaints about the service received by phone are more likely to be investigated as soon after the call took place as possible. Our Helplines deal with a large volume of calls every day and it is very difficult for Helpline Advisors to remember details of calls and be able to report on the interaction.
2. Anybody wishing to complain should initially be encouraged to contact the Senior Support Worker by telephone, letter, or email. The Senior Support Worker will acknowledge receipt of the complaint and explain the complaints procedure within 5 working days of receiving the complaint.
3. The Senior Support Worker will attempt to resolve the matter informally.
4. If the Senior Support Worker is not able to resolve the complaint to the complainant’s satisfaction or if the complaint is about the Senior Support Worker, then the complainant should be invited to register a formal complaint with the Operations Director of Respect by telephone, letter, or email within fifteen days.
5. The Operations Director will appoint an investigating officer (in most cases the investigating officer will be the Operations Director) and let the complainant know who will investigate the matter and what the timetable is within five working days of receiving the complaint.
6. After investigation, the investigating officer will reply to the complainant with the outcome within ten working days and if this is not possible the investigating officer will explain why to the complainant and let them know when they can expect a reply by.

7. In considering the matter the investigating officer should ensure that every opportunity is given to the complainant and the relevant Respect staff to explain and clarify their case.
8. If the complaint is upheld, this could result in re-training the staff involved or disciplinary proceedings.
9. If the complainant remains dissatisfied after investigation, he or she can appeal to the Chair of Respect's Management Board. The appeal process is as follows:
  - Complainants must submit their appeal within five working days of receiving the investigating officer's reply;
  - The appeal will be sent to the investigating officer and complainants need to state the reasons why they remain dissatisfied with the outcome of the investigation;
  - Complainants need also state their explicit consent that the investigating officer will pass their contact details and the details of their interaction with the helpline to the Chair of Respect's Management Board for the sole purpose of dealing with the appeal. The Chair will take extra care ensuring any information identifying complainants is kept secure and confidential.
  - The Chair may delegate the appeal process to other Board members.
  - After consideration of the appeal the decision of the Chair (or the Board member considering the appeal) will be final and there will be no further recourse to appeal.
  - The complainant will be informed of the final decision within a month.
10. The Senior Support Worker will maintain a complaints book, which records the details of all complaints and the results of the investigations. Any records containing sensitive information and/or identifying service users will be kept secure and confidential for twelve months and will then be disposed of in a secure manner.
11. Respect will ensure that Helplines staff are aware of the complaints policy so that callers who wish to complain have all the information they need to do so. Complaints made against the Respect Phoneline or the Men's Advice Line will be used to improve and further develop the service offered.
